Communication skills

Excellent communication skills obtained thanks to the multi-cultural environments in which I've worked and taught.

Organisational / managerial skills

During the Ph.D. I've often been involved in several research groups, and was assigned the management of some sub-parts of those researches.

Job-related skills

Good experience in applied researches obtained working in several research and consultancies jobs during the last years. I've also collaborated to different courses at the University of Genoa, mainly connected to the modules of Transport Economics and of Regional Economics for both undergraduate and postgraduate students in the Faculty of Economics of the University of Genoa. Among the duties of my teaching activities, the main ones concern giving lectures, marking, managing administrative duties and assisting in the supervision of Masters and Bachelor thesis. During the research period I've attended specialised PhD courses in GIS systems, Econometrics, Game Theory and Agent Based Theory.

Computer skills

Good Knowledge of MS Office. I can use Linux and IOS based systems. I've often worked with several statistical and econometrical software (e.g. Stata, Eviews, R), with some simulation programmes (e.g. Witness, Lindo, Transcad) and GIS software (Map Info, Transcad, ArchGIS).
